

Preschool Remote Learning During the Pandemic

At Tarver Elementary School

Video Guide

This video describes how Peggy Mattingley, General Education Teacher, Kirsten Bilderaya, Itinerant Early Childhood Specialist, and Molly McCarthy, Speech-Language Pathologist, at Tarver Elementary School in Thornton, Colorado delivered remote learning services in spring, 2020 during the COVID-19 pandemic. They discuss how they reached out to families, provided both asynchronous and synchronous activities, delivered individualized services, and supported children with Individualized Education Programs (IEPs).

Introduction
Introductions (00:06)
The Beginning of Remote Learning (00:23)
Reaching Out to Families (01:15)
The General Curriculum
Daily Zoom Sessions with the Class (03:09)
Lesson Plans (07:58)
Video Recordings (11:10)
Individualized Services and Support of Children with Individualized Education Programs (IEPs)
Individualized Family Resources (11:44)
Consultative Co-Therapy Visits (12:38)
Peer Sessions (14:20)
Data Collection, IEPs, Evaluation (15:21)
Summary
Advice for Teachers about Remote Learning (16:18)
End Credits (17:04)